Natural Charm

Stunning Geological Wonders

Lailai boasts the most developed coastal erosion platform on the Northeast Coast. The Kuroshio Current nurtures abundant algae and plankton, fostering a thriving fish ecosystem.

Its remarkable landscape features unique formations like the "Devil's Washboard," where black rocks stand against crashing waves, and the "Fire Dragon Rock," resembling a submerged dragon's back. From here, one can admire Guishan Island in the distance, along with stunning sea vistas. Travelers should exercise caution during winter due to potentially larger waves, prioritizing safety during sightseeing and photography.

Rivers and Sea Meet Golden Beaches

Fulong Beach boasts golden sand beaches, where the Shuangxi River meets the sea. This beach is embraced by the Pacific Ocean and the Shuangxi River, creating an unique dual landscape of the river and sea. The crescent-shaped Rainbow Bridge connects the two areas, leading visitors to the ocean beach. Well-known events include the Fulong International Sand Sculpture Art Festival and the Hohaiyan Rock Festival.

Recreation Paradise

Diverse Water Activities

Fulong's golden beaches attract many visitors every year, crossing the crescent-shaped "Rainbow Bridge" to enjoy playing in the sand, splashing in the water, and swimming during the summer.

This is also a popular spot for visitors to engage in fun water activities like canoeing, windsurfing, stand-up paddleboarding, and surfing. Water sports enthusiasts should not miss out!

The site boasts well-appointed facilities catering to various interests, including camping services and recreational amenities such as paintball, water play pools, and high-altitude ziplines. Along the riverside, kayaking activities provide an opportunity to explore the pristine ecology and scenic beauty of the Shuangxi River firsthand.

Cultural Highlights

A Tunnel Reborn

The "Old Caoling Tunnel," stretching 2,167 meters between New Taipei and Yilan, is immortalized in the Taiwanese folk song "Diu Diu Don-Ah." Once abandoned for over two decades due to railway realignment, it reopened in 2008 as a cycling path. This tunnel boasts a consistent warm temperature in winter and coolness in summer, providing a delightful 20-minute ride. Popular photo spots include the inscribed doorframes at the northern and southern entrances, labeled "Zhitianxian" and "Baiyun Feichu." At the southern entrance, visitors can witness trains emerging from the new Caoling Tunnel from the observation deck. Adjacent to the southern entrance is the Cliffside Cottage (Shicheng No. 9 Café), a charming hidden coffee shop boasting breathtaking sea views and a distant view of Guishan Island.

Fulong town is a treasure trove of stories, inviting you on a cultural odyssey. Its stunning mountain and sea vistas captivate visitors, while its local charm beckons them to linger. Experience the serenity and authenticity of Fulong amidst railway tracks and sea breezes, immersing yourself in its rich tapestry of life and lore.

Fishing Village Nostalgia

About 5 kilometers further along the road from Fulong towards Yilan lies the fishing village of Mao'ao. The name "Mao'ao" is said to have originated from the resemblance of the bay to the Chinese character "凹" when viewed from a high place. The most characteristic feature of the fishing village is its old stone houses, showcasing the best examples of local materials being used for construction.

"Magang" is the easternmost fishing village in Taiwan, where traditional stone houses are still preserved. The wide coastal erosion platforms, intertidal zones, and vast coastal scenery around Magang Fishing Port are all worth visiting.

"Magang Empress Gallery" is located at the 107.7 kilometer mark on Provincial Highway No. 2. It is now a scenic café filled with artistic charm and boasting unbeatable ocean views. It's the perfect spot for exploring geological landscapes, viewing panoramic intertidal zones, and experiencing the breathtaking sea and sky.

Cycling Adventure

Fulong is the top spot for cycling along the Northeast Coast. Near Fulong Train Station, you'll find plenty of bike rental shops offering various bikes for rent. With its well-planned cycling paths, perfect for family rides, cycling is a favorite leisure activity in Fulong.

Old Caoling Tunnel and Circular Line Bikeway

Starting from Fulong Train Station, the Old Caoling Circular Line Bikeway offers routes of 10, 20, and 30 kilometers. The most suitable route for family cycling is approximately 10 kilometers long. It is recommended to start from Fulong Train Station towards the Old Caoling Tunnel, then return to Fulong Station after reaching the southern entrance of the tunnel. The entire route is flat and easy to ride, especially inside the tunnel where it's cool in summer and warm in winter - one of the classic cycling routes in northern Taiwan.

Longmen-Yanliao Route

The Longmen-Yanliao Bikeway, stretching between Fulong and Yanliao Beach Park, begins at the Provincial Highway 2 bicycle lane near the Fulong Visitor Center. Around kilometer 99 of Provincial Highway 2, just after passing the entrance gate of the Longmen Camping Resort, cyclists can turn downhill to reach the Longmen Suspension Bridge. Spanning the Shuangxi River with its striking red towers, this 200-meter-long bridge offers panoramic views of the riverside and surrounding mountain and sea scenery, making it a must-see landmark along the route.

▲ Longmen Suspension Bridge

Beyond the suspension bridge, the path splits into the "Forest Trail" and "Coastal Trail," both of which merge later on. Each trail offers its own unique scenery, so it's worth exploring both on the outbound and return journeys. The route concludes at Yanliao Beach Park, where visitors can relax with afternoon tea, take a leisurely stroll along the beach, and admire the sea view. Additionally, the park features the Yanliao Resistance Monument, with informative boards detailing the historical events of the Yanliao resistance against Japanese invasion.

Culinary Delights

Fulong Bento

There are numerous bento shops near Fulong Train Station. Traditional Fulong bento typically includes pork, tofu, pickled vegetables, sausage, radish, braised egg, and chicken roll, among other dishes. Nowadays, there are also options such as chicken drumsticks and pork chops, offering a nostalgic and delicious taste beloved by tourists.

Seafood

Along the Fulong and Northeast Coast, including Magang, Mao'ao, and Aodi, there are many seafood restaurants offering various fresh delicacies. Don't miss out on the authentic seafood flavors when visiting the Northeast Coast.

Agar Jelly

Agar jelly from the Northeast Coast is made by collecting, cleaning, sun-drying, boiling, filtering, and refrigerating agar. It is rich in collagen, high in fiber, and low in calories. With diverse and rich flavors, it is the perfect summer cooler when visiting the Northeast Coast.

Gongliao Abalone

Gongliao is famous for its nine-hole abalone and other varieties. Raised in pure and natural seawater, Gongliao abalone is known for its firm texture, sweetness, juiciness, and high nutritional value.

Seasonal Activities

Fulong Life Festival

Integrating Fulong's tourism appeal with its industrial resources, the focus is on cycling tourism, with the renowned "Fulong International Sand Sculpture Art Festival" and a series of themed activities from June to October. This initiative aims to immerse tourists in the vibrant local life of Fulong while showcasing its unique charm.

Fulong International Sand Sculpture Art Festival

Since 2008, the Fulong International Sand Sculpture Art Festival has been held annually on Fulong Beach during the summer. With unique themes each year, the festival invites both local and international artists to create captivating sand sculptures, establishing itself as the most prominent landscape art event on the Northeast Coast.

Hohaiyan Rock Festival

Since 2000, this yearly event on Fulong Beach in July has been a big draw for young tourists. With performances by bands from around the world, the festival is full of vibrant energy. Attendees can really feel the passion and emotion in the music.

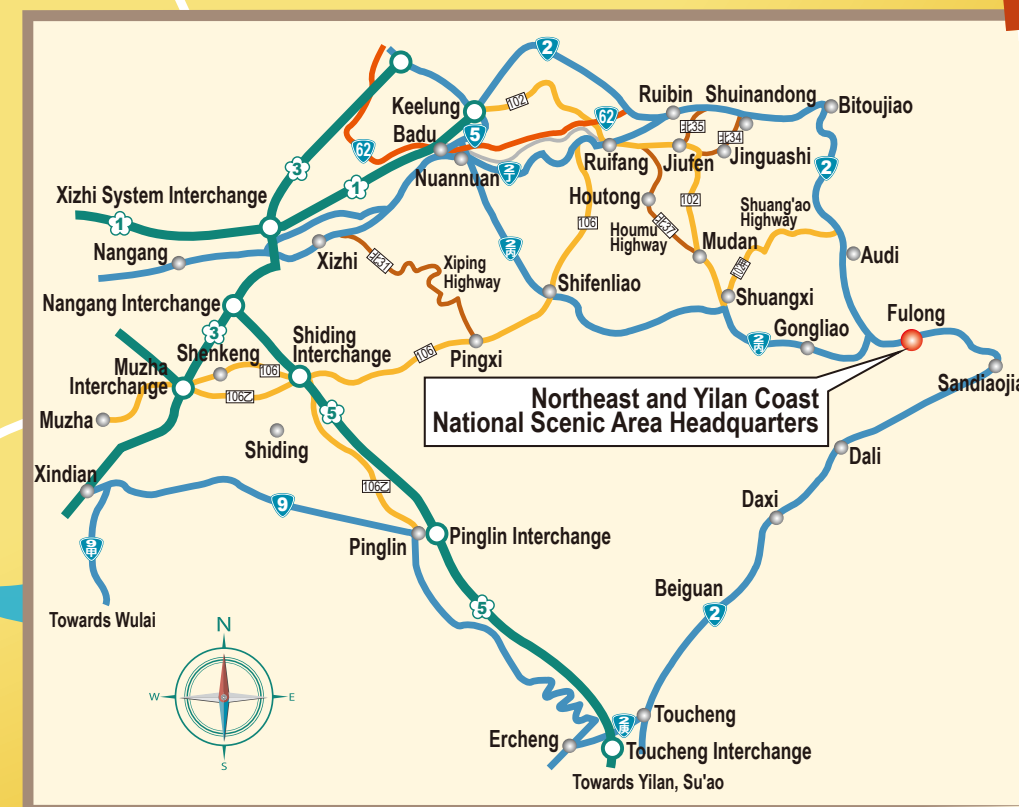

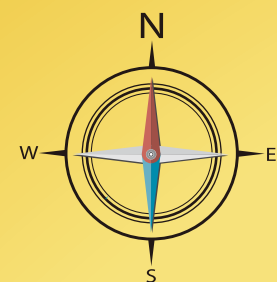

Caoling Historic Trail Miscanthus Season

The Caoling Historic Trail, a section of the Tamsui-Kavalan Trails, is the most popular hiking trail in the Northeast Coast. Every autumn, the trail is covered with miscanthus flowers, accompanied by various interesting seasonal activities, leading people to relive the charm this old trail.
